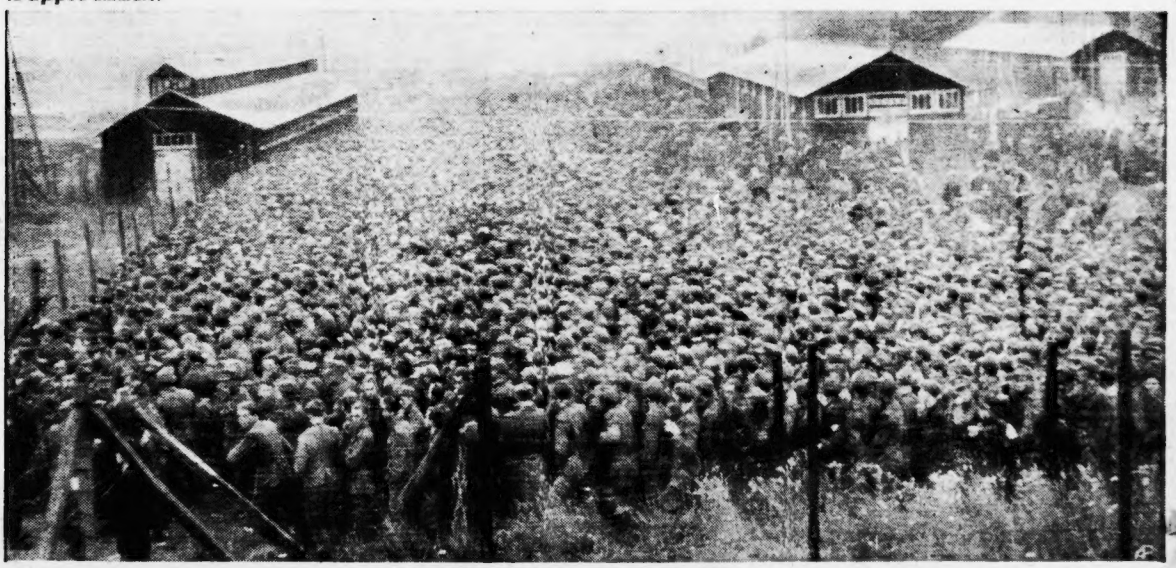
SEINE TRAP KNOCKS OUT 122,000 NAZIS

By JOHN F. CHESTER
Former Chief of Associated Press Bureau in Boston

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS NEAR THE SEINE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Allied troops killed or captured 122,000 Germans in traps southwest of the lower Seine last week, ripping Von Kluge's Seventh Army into all but worthless shreds, British Second Army headquarters disclosed today.

Some 92,000 were captured between Aug. 20-25 and 30,000 were estimated to have been killed. Even this huge bag has been swelled during the last three days and will grow again today as troops complete mopping up the last three remaining pockets in Seine river loops south and west of Rouen. The trapped Germans have been fighting back with the desperation of trapped animals.



German Prisoners... 10,000 of 'Em—Better than 10,000 words, this picture tells the story of fading Nazi morale in northern France. It shows 10,000 German prisoners within the barbed wire fence of a compound as they line up for lunch . . . captives in the Allied drive.

Yanks Flank Robot Bases

LONDON, Aug 29 (AP)—U. S. columns vaulting the historic Marne river punched to the outskirts of Chateau-Thierry and within 35 miles of Reims today in swift strikes carving through northern France.

These armor-tipped thrusts carried within 76 miles of the Belgian border and began to flank the Germans' rocket-bomb coast, already menaced by drives across the Seine between Paris and the sea.

(Reuters Correspondent John Wilhelm reported in a dispatch from field headquarters that American forces had captured Chateau-Thierry, Montmirail and Vitry.)

Southern France and its Nazi invaders were being chopped up by the same strategy of envelopment moves, American and French troops tightened a trap on the German 19th army in the Rhone valley.

The French striking west from Avignon on the Rhone reached Uzes and pounded through the big city of Nimes 14 miles from the river. Other columns pressing northward squeezed the Germans in between Avignon and Montelimar, 45 miles farther north. Americans who reached Montelimar Friday fanned out, annihilating more Germans.

From Nimes the Allies drove toward the French-Spanish border. On the eastern coastal end, U. S. troops reached within five miles of Nice, and 20 of the Italian frontier. Marseille and Toulon were completely liberated.

Two American columns crossed the Marne, destroying any German hope of resisting on that river of World War I battles. One advanced 16 miles northeast of Meaux to Cuvergnon, standing within 10 miles of the forest of Compiegne where the Armistice of 1918 was signed and where Hitler held his triumphant ceremony of 1940.

These troops were within 16 miles of the Aisne.

In a second crossing east of Meaux, Third Army men struck on the 13-mile stretch to Chateau-Thierry, and advance patrols were reported on the edge of or actually in the city, scene of a great American victory in 1918.

Allied planes drubbed the Germans from the Seine mouth to the German frontier. Liquidation of Germans caught below the Seine was carrying rapidly to a climax. Already Allied armies had crossed the lower Seine, heading for the robot-plane installations on the Pas de Calais coast.

The whole 85-mile Third Army assault arc east of Paris was swinging north to within 20 miles of Epernay and Vitry—the back door to Verdun—and was 35 miles from the first World War seige citadel of Reims. It was a mop-up on a sweeping scale across the scarred battlefields of some 30 years ago.

Capture of Vitry, reported by Reuters, would put the Americans across the upper Marne, 100 miles east of Paris and 50 miles from the frontier of the stolen French province of Lorraine, which the Germans claimed as the boundary of the greater Reich.

Slashing toward the Belgian border, 76 miles away, American units which reached Cuvergnon were 20 miles from Soissons and Compiegne. The Aisne river, which flows between these two cities, links with the Somme into the last river defensive chain in northern France. A breach of the Aisne would flank any stand Marshal von Kluge might hope to make on the Somme to save the flying bomb belt.

Between Paris and the sea—where the Allies already were reported seizing more of the southernmost of the German flying bomb bases with each day's advance—the Canadians pushed over two bridgeheads to within a few miles of the German strong point of Rouen on the back road to Dieppe.

Three other British and American bridgeheads were deepened three to five miles north of the Seine toward Beauvais.

One front line report said at least 14 robot bomb sites had been found in the mopped up area just south of the Seine, with increasing numbers ahead every mile of the thrust from the north banks.

NORTHERN FRANCE—Arrows indicate Allied drives today along the main front (black line) in France. Yanks neared Chateau-Thierry and, north of the Marne, they were pushing toward Compiegne and Soissons, while British and Canadians strengthened bridgeheads across the Seine northwest of Paris. Reds Sight Ploesti Oil Wells, Hem Bucharest

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Aug. 29 (AP)—Swift Russian drives through Romania approached the great oil center of Ploesti and Bucharest today as one Army poured across a 75-mile stretch on the Danube and another knifed 15 miles inside Hungarian-held Transylvania.

Hungarian and German troops were reported massing in Transylvania, the 16,642 square mile section of Romania which Hitler gave to Hungary in 1940. The sudden Russian push through passes in the Carpathians gave the Red army the good base town of Pretsku on a railroad and highway.

(The German radio said the Russians had driven into Buzau, 40 miles northeast of Ploesti and 36 miles from Bucharest. Buzau is a rail and road junction west of Braila, large Danube port the Russians captured last night.)

The entire Danube delta was in Russian hands and troops which crossed the Danube on a wide front were racing for the Black Sea port of Constanta and the roads leading to Bucharest from the east and northeast.

The Russians captured a large flotilla on the Danube and each hour, new ships were arriving on the Danube and Black sea coast behind Russian lines, flying the red flag.

Already the Ploesti oil derricks, north of the city, were in sight of Russian troops. Vossacks, tanks and motorized infantry on the plains before the Romania capital ranged close to the city of 850,000, feeling out German resistance.

Other Russians deep in capitulated Romania edged within 45 miles of Brasoz, 12th city of the kingdom with 62,000 people, and seriously menaced any chance the Germans might have for a stand.

The Red army was moving forward on a 200-mile front from positions inside Transylvania west of the main Carpathian ridge to the Black sea between captured Sulina and Constanta. Red Star reported surrender of Gen. Boiko, commander of the 14th Romanian division.

Nazis Mass Against Red Romania Drive

HEADQUARTERS U. S. 15TH AIR FORCE, Italy, Aug. 29 (AP)—Pilots scouting the Balkans reported evidence today the Germans had succeeded in regrouping a sizable force in the path of the Russian advance through the Galati gap upon the Romanian capital of Bucharest.

They saw no sign of large-scale German evacuation from the surrendered kingdom into Hungary or Yugoslavia.

China in Move To Please Stalin

CHUNGKING, Aug. 29 (AP)—As a friendly gesture to Russia, the Chinese government has removed Gen. Sheng Shih Tsai from the governorship of Sinkiang, in far Northwest China. Gen. Wu Chung Hsin, at present chairman of the Mongolian and Tibetan Affairs Commission, succeeds him, an official announcement said today.

The change represented one of the most important governorship switches in China since President Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalists established a government in Nanking in 1927.

Germany Denies Bid for Peace

LONDON, Aug. 29 (INS)—The Nazi agency DNB today circulated a statement from a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman denying that Germany has initiated peace moves with the Allies.

The denial bore no explanation. There have been no recent credible reports of formal Nazi peace moves.

Tokyo Warlords Warn of Defeat

Associated Press

Japanese warlords appealed to industrialists and workers today to produce more planes and munitions to stem the American air offensive pounding along the northern and southern island highways to Japan.

The imperial command was receiving a continuous demonstration of the consequences of lost air power in the southwest Pacific where almost unmolested Allied bombers continued their month-long average of putting five Jap ships a day out of commission.

American warplanes hit islands between Marianas bases and Tokyo or the Philippines.

Allies Close on Gothic Line

ROME, Aug 29 (AP)—Forward elements of the Eighth Army, advancing along the entire eastern half of the Italian front, have pushed at one point to within three miles of the Nazis' Gothic Line, Allied headquarters disclosed today.

A communique announced infantry and tanks had surged forward throughout the sector, with Polish forces on the coast occupying the town of Fano and establishing a line on the southern bank of the Arzilla river. Further inland other units punched across that stream.

Medal of Honor Waits Anzio One-Man Army

A glorious climax to 105 days in General Cushing Hospital, Framingham—award of his nation's highest military decoration—awaits PFC William J. Johnston, 26, in Washington tomorrow.

Johnston, a machine gunner who was once a plumber's helper in Middleton, Ct., saved his company from annihilation in fierce Anzio beachhead fighting. Singlehanded, he beat off two German counter-attacks, sticking to his gun after comrades withdrew in the belief e had been fatally wounded.

The soft-spoken soldier left the hospital yesterday, partially recovered from a serious wound over the heart. En route to Washington, where he will receive the Congressional Medal of Honor, he was to be joined by his wife, who lives in Colchester, Ct.

Johnston will return to the hospital Friday for continued treatment. As his wife prepared to meet him, she said:

"Neither of us can believe it's really so. I don't know yet what it all means. But Bill feels just fine again and that's what counts most. You'd never know he'd been wounded."

The action in which Johnston was cited by the War Department began Feb. 17. Before it was over two days later he had killed or wounded more than 30 Nazis.

When a wave of 80 Germans first struck, riflemen in Johnston's company could not halt them because of darkness. But the spray of his machine gun did. The enemy droped back leaving 25 dead behind. Later in the day, two Germans worked their way to Johnston's post but he killed one with his pistol and the other with a borrowed rifle.

That night the company dropped back. Johnston was the last man to leave. He kept an all-night vigil in a new position and the next day beat off the Germans again, killing or wounding seven.

The company, outflanked, was ordered still farther back during the afternoon of the 18th. Again, Johnston elected to cover the withdrawal.

As the enemy began closing in, Johnston was seriously wounded by a shell fragment that struck him above the heart. Tech. Sgt. Robert O. Alexander, Idabel, Okla., crawled to him, but decided that Johnston couldn't make it back to his company.

"So, I grabbed him under the arms and helped him into a position behind the gun," Alexander related. "He said he was O. K., so I left."

A short time later, his comrades heard his machine gun chattering away again.

Johnston kept firing for about 10 minutes and then tried to crawl to his platoon's new line. He ran into three German machine gunners who took him prisoner and placed him in a house previously occupied by Johnston's company.

The following morning Johnston discovered the Germans had departed and made his way to American troops nearby.

Swain's Joke Almost Fatal

NEW YORK, 29 (INS)—Lloyd Schwarzmeier, 23, and his prospective bride, Brunhilde Reust, 18, had come from Rochester to be married. Schwarzmeier knew exactly the type of ring the girl wanted but decided to tease her.

Picking a quarrel over a minor matter, he told Brunhilde he no longer loved her, and stormed out of the room they had rented.

Returning with the ring, he discovered his fiancee unconscious and the room filled with gas. A note informed him that "I'm sorry you feel the way you do. There's no one else but you."

A happy ending came when the young woman was taken to the hospital in time and doctors said the chances were good that she would wear the wedding ring of her choice.

Witch Hunt Is Paris Danger, Says Lake

By AUSTEN LAKE

PARIS (Delayed)—This is not exactly a health resort. Last night the Luftwaffe came over and gave the city its first general plastering. The sky was rosy with incendiary fires. The dull reverberating of bombs punctuated an incessant ack ack and machinegun fire, but that is merely a risk inherent with warfare compared with the wild west shooting that goes on all night, the stuttering burst of machine guns and the spat of rifles in the early evening.

As I turned down the Rue de Rennes, an excited Frenchman in civilian clothes stopped me and said with appropriate gestures: "What can we do about this shooting? It goes all around us. For what?"

I replied: "It is the French who do the shooting. Too many irresponsible people have guns. It's up to the authorities to take those guns away."

I've never seen a spectacle like Paris today, for hordes of long haired youths with the FFI arm bands (French Forces of the Interior) wander at random through the streets with carbines and pistols.

MOVIE COWBOYS

Presumably they are under some mysterious authority, but they are undisciplined, highly excitable and imbued with their own picturesque makeup, viewing themselves as a French version of the U. S. cinema cowboy. Not that they molest the Paris people themselves, but merely that they demonstrate what rugged citizens they are.

Thus yesterday and today and indefinitely onward, men with semi-official status go racing through the streets at more than 60 miles an hour, in cars and on motorcycles, sounding their screaming sirens and chasing casual traffic up on the sidewalks.

If they have any missions of such split second importance, nobody knows about it.

Indeed, in some respects Paris is like a cow town during the early Indian period, and it will continue to be so until somebody, De Gaulle or whoever, disarms these curious characters or kicks them out of town, back to the woods and the forests where they can hunt Nazi boogie men to their hearts' content.

The easiest method for one to commit suicide now would be to appear without apparent purpose

Big 3 Parley Agrees on Form of Postwar Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Dumbarton Oaks conferees announced today "general agreement" on the form of an international security organization, including a council composed of big powers plus a number of smaller nations.

The conferees declined to amplify the announcement, made in a joint statement, or to say specifically what authority should be given to the small powers on the council in relation to the big nations.

The joint statement said:

"After a week of discussions, the three heads of delegations are happy to announce that there is general agreement among them to recommend that the proposed international organization for peace and security should provide for:

"1—An assembly composed of representatives of all peace-loving nations based on the principle of sovereign equality.

"2—A council composed of a smaller number of members in which the principle states will be joined by a number of other states to be elected periodically.

"3—Effective means for the peaceful settlements of disputes, including an international court of justice for th adjudication of justiciable questions, and also the applications of such other means as may be necessary for maintenance of peace and security."

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 29—Physicians attending Mrs. Charles E. Lee, wife of an Army private and mother of America's newest quadruplets, today awaited the arrival of her husband from Camp Blanding, Fla., before breaking the news to her that one of her four babies died during the night.

Dr. George Karelas said the mother was making good progress and was looking forward eagerly to her husband's visit. The baby that died, he said, was the first born of the four.

"He was strong at birth but began to weaken two hours later and remained weak until the end," Dr. Karelas added. "The other three babies are doing fine."

The 23-year-old auburn-haired mother still planned what names she would give her sons.

"Won't Charlie be surprised?" she smiled. "He wanted twins, but I never thought I'd bring two sets to him!"

Her husband, a strapping 190-pound, 25-year-old infantryman, did not know that one of his sons had died when he left Camp Blanding on an emergency furlough to visit his family.

946 Germans First Capture Yank Then Surrender to Him

By EDWARD KENNEDY

GRENOBLE, Aug. 25 (delayed) (AP)—A German formation of 946 troops surrendered today to 24-year-old U. S. Lt. Clarence E. Goggins of Poteau, Okla., whom they had captured a short time before.

The Nazis were members of a division which the French said used ruthless methods to combat patriot activities, and apparently surrendered to the American for fear of what might happen if they fell into French hands.

Coggins was captured Wednesday night while on reconnaissance.

"They put me with 11 of my men who were captured, but when they learned I was an officer they called me over for a conference with their officers," he said.

"They called me back several times for additional talks. It seemed strange at first, but then I got the idea—they were discussing surrendering to us."

Eventually their commanding officer, a major, asked Coggins to take the surrender offer over the lines. Coggins made the trip accompanied by a German officer.

Later he returned to the Germans with the terms from his battalion commander, Lt. Col. Philip M. Johnson of Portland, Me.—that they lay down all arms and come in their own vehicles.

The Germans did so early today.

These are donated with the understanding they are tos tep up piets and not lessen the previous rate of egg purchases.

Auto Inspection Resumes Sept. 1

Stressing the need for maintaining cars in good condition during wartime, Motor Vehicle Registrar Rudolph F. King announced today that equipment on all motor vehicles in the state must be inspected at official stations between Sept. 1 and Oct. 31.

"This will be the most important checkup since the system began in 1930," King declared. "Not only the safety of highway users is to be considered this time but also the preservation of cars for essential wartime transportation."

King pointed that the state's 800,000 cars have not been tested since Oct. 31, 1943 because the semi-annual inspection system was temporarily abandoned this year due to manpower shortage.

Umberto Sends Note To Lynn Yank's Wife

Crown Prince Umberto of Italy is a "grand guy."

So says Buck Private Ralph Abelson, 28, former Walnut Hill, Roxbury, boy, now living in Lynn, who has been "palling around" in Italy with the tall, dark and handsome member of the House of Savoy who may be Italy's next king.

His pretty brunette wife, Doris, 24, at their home at 80 Baker st., Lynn, anxiously awaits a photograph of herself and her 16-months-old son, Martin Paul, autographed by Umberto, and now on the way from Italy.

It all came about this way:

When Abelson hit the Italian beaches he got in touch with his uncle, Capt. Morris Baker of 884 Summer st., Lynn, interpreter for Gen. Mark Clark of the Fifth Army.

Later Baker and Abelson met near the Italian field headquarters, where Abelson lated met Umberto.

To his wife, Abelson refers to the meeting modestly, in a letter, telling her of the picture and a bracelet and necklace set he has for her.

"Imagine my surprise when I am standing with Capt. Baker and along comes the prince," Ableson wrote. "We went a sumptuous dining hall where there were all gold-braided generals for dinner. I was the only private there.

"I sat opposite the prince and weh ad a long talk.

"I was very much impressed with him, of course, and he seemed to like me.

"We both talked about our families. I told him about you and Martin and he seemed delighted when I showed him the picture of you both, which he autographed. I have mailed it to you.

"He asked me for your address and said that he was going to write you to say how pleased he was to have met me and heard about you."

Abelson, an English High and Wagner Art School graduate, managed the Fruitland in Center st., Jamaica Plain.

He hasn't seen his son, Martin—who now walks and talks since he was six months old.

The baby, asked where his father was, said in a rising soprano:

"A-r-r-MEE! ! !"

Six Suspected Leaders In Juvenile Crime Held

Believed to be the instigators and ring leaders in the wave of juvenile gangsterism in Roxbury and the Fenway, six youths, most of them several years older than the two teen age groups now in custody, were arrested by police in Park sq. early today and held for the police lineup.

The arrest of the six came about by merest chance, police admitted, but after they were questioned extensively at the Warren ave., station all were booked on suspicion of being drunk rollers. Police said two of them came from Roxbury, the others from Medford, Billerica, Brockton and Charlestown. They range in age from 17 to 22.

Several prowl cars were rushing to a reported break in the Ola Restaurant in Carver st. when police attention was attracted to this sextet by their yelling and loud singing in Park sq. After no trace of a prowler was found at the nearby restaurant, the six were picked up for routine questioning.

In the lineup today the youths denied they had been involved in any crimes. They were returned to cells while police investigated their backgrounds and several unsolved crimes which have been attributed to young gangsters.

While refusing to divulge in detail what police learned, Sgt. Timothy Collins said they had sufficient evidence to warrant holding all of them for a thorough investigation.

He declared this older gang had apparently operated so successfully in robbing drunks that they had set a pattern which the younger gangs, now under arrest on serious charges, including murder, tried to copy.

Meanwhile, Roxbury police today promised early arrests of two teen age girls previously questioned in the probe of gang robberies.

The new charges against these girls followed disclosures made at the trial of a 15-year-old girl who was held by Judge Frankland W. L. Miles in $1000 bail for the grand jury on a charge of stealing a seaman's watch.

One girl of 18 is wanted on a charge of carrying a revolver without a license. The other, a juvenile, is accused of being an accessory before the fact of unarmed robbery.

The older girl sought was described by police as the principal lure to attract servicemen to the Fenway. Detectives asserted she used the gun to hold off a victim while boys assaulted and robbed him, although the warrant charges her only with illegal possession of a firearm.

She is said to have been given the revolver by the leader of the gang that robbed Harold L. Weiler, a merchant sailor. The attack on Weiler was uncovered while police were probing the murder and robbery of John F. Prunty, discharged marine, by another gang of boys.

Hit Blood Slackers

Boston Red Cross officials revealed today that 90 per cent of the home front civilians have not given one pint of blood for plasma.

This amazing lack of concern by the public in its most important war duty was made public as the Red Cross here, unable to meet its Army-Navy quota for the last three months, pleaded for volunteers to offer blood donations.

"This laxity by the civilians of this country is the more appalling when we realize that the Army and Navy count no risk too great or cost too high in getting Red Cross blood plasma to the fighting front," a Metropolitan Chapter spokesman said.

"Life-saving plasma is largely responsible for the fact that 97 out of 100 of our wounded men are being saved," according to Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, USA, and Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntyre, USN, surgeons-general of the Army and Navy.

Its use in all wound cases is so necessary that the Army and Navy give plasma top priority in its war supply cargoes. By plane, by parachute, by native carrier, it is rushed to even the most isolated units.

Helicopter in Hop to Belmont

At impressive ceremonies attended by thousands of patriotic war bond buyers, a cargo-carrying helicopter was poised today for the first helicopter commercial flight over a proposed postwar air route between Cambridge and Belmont.

BOND SELLERS FROM FILENE'S VIEW HELICOPTER
Plane's Commercial Flight Today to Make Aviation History

Sponsored by Wm. Filene's Sons Co., in co-operation with the Massachusetts War Finance Committee, to spur the sale of war bonds and stamps, the history making flight followed an all-day exhibition of the helicopter at a unique war bond rally outside of Filene's Cambridge warehouse.

Another war bond rally immediately preceded today's elaborate program attending the takeoff from the Cambridge warehouse on the Riverway beside the West Boston bridge, where notables of city and state gathered to take part in the exercises.

At the helicopter's destination—Filene's Branch Shop in Belmont—a group of town officials and Filene's executives, headed by Leonard W. Libby of Filene's, was present to greet its arrival. Scheduled speakers at the takeoff ceremony included Lt. Gov. Horace T. Cahill; Harold Hodgkinson, general manager of Filene's; Mayor John H. Corcoran of Cambridge, and Godfrey L. Cabot, director of the Aeronautic Ass'n of Boston.

Features of the Belmont welcoming program included a fashion show and entertainment by guest stars from Boston hotels and night clubs.

The first helicopter war bond rally sold a total of $4200 in bonds and stamps, officials announced. Purchasers of $500 war bonds became charter members of the Helicopter Club, entitled to a free postward helicopter ride as guests of Aeronautical Products, Inc., Detroit.

Plan Your Overseas Gift Now

A Victory Present for a Victory Christmas!

Patriotic citizens will not forget that Christmas comes too for our overseas fighting men and they will realize that on that day, of all the days in the year, the boys must not be forgotten.

Thoughtful citizens will start now to prepare their Yuletide gifts for soldiers, sailors, marines and coastguardsmen who are forging the chains of victory on all the distant fighting fronts of the word.

It is in their honor that the third annual Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas campaign is being conducted by the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser.

This is a spontaneous, co-operative drive to assure a Christmas remembrance for every New England soldier and sailor on foreign soil and the high seas.

You will not forget your own soldier or sailor, husband or brother, son or sweetheart. But there may be a boy in your own community who has no one to remember him on Christmas Day. These newspapers will furnish the names of such boys to their readers. The time to mail Christmas packages to all those overseas is from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15.

A distinguished committee is sponsoring the drive. Chairman is Patrick J. Connelly, postmaster of Boston. Others include Bishop Richard J. Cushing, D. D., administrator of the Boston diocese; Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, head of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts; Rabbi Herman H. Rubenovitz, president of the Greater Boston Rabbinical Ass'n; Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin, Thomas F. Mackay, state department commander, American Legion; Charles W. Frascotti, commander, state department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Laurence Curtis, state commander, Disabled American Veterans.

Complete instructions for enrolling in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas will be printed in these newspapers during the week, along with coupons to be filled out by readers and mailed to the Christmas Gifts for Overseas Buddies Editor. Within a few days after receiving your filled out coupon, the editor will supply you with the name of a soldier or sailor in your neighborhood whose Christmas you may gladden with a gift.

Instructions for the preparation of Christmas packages, their weight and contents and method of packing, also will be printed.

90 Million Gifts

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP) —The Army will start sending 90,000,000 Christmas packages overseas next week upon completion of a huge new post-office on the site of the former Madison Sq. Garden bowl.

Roxbury's Boy Houdini, 16, To Court---If Cell Holds Him

Surrounded by very watchful police, 16-year-old William Tuttle, Roxbury's boy Houdini, was brought into Municipal Court today to face a charge of larceny of a Navy bag at South Station.

The youth, who has slipped away from police five times, was picked up again by Patrolman Thomas Farrell at Huntington and Massachusetts aves., and taken to City Prison, where there hasn't been an escape in 10 years.

Last Saturday, he leaped over the desk at the Milk st. station and vanished. His most spectacular escape occurred last Friday when he jumped through a Malden courthouse window, prior to arraignment of charges of automobile theft.

Twice he escaped from Shirley School and once from an FBI agent who was holding him for trafficking in stolen automobiles.

Postwar Boom In Shoes Seen

New England, which leads the nation in shoe production with a 35 per cent output, faces a bright postwar future in its shoe and leather industry with a prospective employment increase of 27,000 workers, according to Maxwell Field, executive secretary of the New England Shoe and Leather Ass'n.

Field predicted, in the New England Council's war ulletin, off the press today, that pent-up consumer demands for new styled shoes would result in "record-breaking production totals" after the removal of government restrictions.

WPB Chief to Fire All Trouble Makers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — Confronted by the angry resignation of another top-ranking administrator, big rosy-cheeked Julius A. Krug waded into dissension-torn War Production Board ranks today with threats of dismissal for trouble makers.

The former Navy lieutenant commander, home from an overseas assignment of simplicity compared with that handed him by President Roosevelt as the aftermath of the latest home front flare-up, declared there will be "one team at the WPB from now on."

Any who don't play ball, he said, will be let out.

Krug outlined his new policy to the Senate War Investigating Committee even as Sidney J. Weinberg was resigning downtown as WPB vice-chairman in charge of special problems with a blast at "demagogic intrigues" within the organization.

Weinberg's stepping out followed a whirlwind series of developments starting with President Roosevelt's assignment of WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson on a confidential mission to China.

"This blow-up was a great tragedy," Weinberg told reporters, adding that Krug's first job should be to clean out the "demagogs and termites who caused all the trouble."

He said the termites were "on the staff level or ivory tower" and not among the operating personnel.

This seemed to fit in with Krug's assertion to the Senate committee that there are no differences of opinion between WPB and Navy and Army operating personnel over war and civilian production.

Pullman Plans Swanky Diner

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP) — Plans for a postwar railway dining car patterned in appointments after a fashionable restaurant were announced today by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Company.

Drawings call for tables in the new diner to be placed diagonally, with seats set at a 45-degree angle to the side of the car instead of at right angles as at present. Other innovations would include vibrationless tables, spot ray illumination, linen storage at each table, and intercar telephone communication.

Boston American, Aug. 29—

Tables for two are planned, as well as for four. Although blueprints for the diner show a capacity of 42.

Because of the present critical tire shortage...

Please DON'T TRAVEL OVER LABOR DAY!

Hundreds of buses needed in war effort are today standing idle due to lack of tires

In the whole period of the war this Labor Day will be the most critical for transportation. Intercity buses simply cannot carry all the people who will need or want to travel —because hundreds of these buses are temporarily standing idle, without tires.

Your help is needed in meeting this crisis. Even if your Labor Day trip is highly essential, postpone it a few days if you possibly can. If you must go, please be prepared for possible delays and unavoidable crowding.

Nothing would give us greater pleasure than to serve you now—but the urgent needs of war come first. We know you will understand and cooperate as you have always done.

We feel sure that it won't be long until all our buses are back in service. With a proud war record behind them, and an urgent job of transporting manpower still ahead, America's buses must be kept rolling!

Musician Gets First GI Loan

Alfred A. Skelly, Jr., of Methuen stepped into the Shawmut National Bank today to get the first government guaranteed loan issued to a World War II veteran under terms of the GI Bill of Rights.

The money is going to buy a new set of drums and traps so he can go back to his old job of pounding out music with a swing band.

Discharged at Lovell General Hospital 29 days ago, the Methuen soldier was the first to apply for a government loan here at offices of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Before he joined the Coast Artillery four years ago, he played in bands around Greater Boston, and kept in practice with the band at Ft. Wright, N. Y., where he was stationed.

Robert A. Marshall, director of the division of employment security, urged unemployed veterans of this war to apply for readjustment allowances any time after Sept. 4.

These, too, are provided for under the GI Bill of Rights and guarantees a veteran $20 a week for 52 week if he cannot obtain employment. Veterans should apply at the nearest U. S. employment office and bring paper of discharge with them.

Tim Foley Avenged, Brother Slays Japs

Sgt. Francis E. Foley, 23, of Stanton st., Malden, is avenging his heroic brother, Pvt. Walter "Tim" Foley, Daily Record-American artist who was killed in battle on Guadalcanal, according to a story released by the War Department today.

When volunteers were sought to bring in wounded on a Southwest Pacific island, Francis was one of the first to step forward. He then fought through a night in which attacking Japs were beaten off four times in their effort to reach and finish off wounded American soldiers.

Because his foxhole was too small, Foley was forced to leave his pack and canteen outside. In the morning he found bullet holes in his canteen. His pack also was riddled.

When the shooting was over, Sgt. Foley had only one beef. He wanted to find out who the infantryman was who slept and snored. The snores were silenced when comrades threw rocks at the offender.

The sergeant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Foley, whose beloved older son, Walter, was one of the first men killed in the struggle to wrest Guadalcanal from the enemy.

Legion Spurs Paper Salvage

The Massachusetts American Legion today threw the full weight of the organization behind the waste paper salvage campaign.

Plans to organize the Bay State members into a salvage corps were announced by Thomas F. Mackay of Somerville, department commander.

Appointment by Mackay as state chairman for the drive was Andrew P. McArdle, who said the state would be divided into 10 districts with every post enlisted.

"It is hardly necessary to remind you of the serious shortage of paper of all kinds," Mackay said. "With many paper mills forced to shut down because of a lack of stock the Legion has agreed to co-operate through individual posts on a community basis."

File 30-Yr.-Old Manning Will

A will drawn 30 years ago by the late Joseph P. Manning, Boston philanthropist and wholesale tobacco merchant, found months after his death last Jan. 23, today is on file in Suffolk registry of probate.

The will was filed by Atty. John W. Cunningham, a son-in-law, who was named administrator of the estate last February when it was thought Manning had died intestate.

Of those named in the will, all of the heirs-at-law now are dead except three daughters. The testator's wife was named executrix.

The newly-discovered will, dated May 5, 1915, bequeathed $10,000 to Manning's mother, Mrs. Ellen Cunningham, and $2500 each to three sisters, Etta and Anne Manning and Mrs. Mary E. Logan, also $2500 to his wife's sister, Mary A. O'Donnell and $500 to her cousin, Rose A. O'Donnell. Three public bequests of $500 each were willed to the Home for Destitute Catholic Children, St. Vincent Orphan Asylum, and Little Sisters of the Poor.

Book on Philippines Extols MacArthur

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIGE

Written especially for International News Service

The most complete and clear over-all picture yet presented to the American public of the tragic Philippine campaign, in which those all-important islands were wrenched from their heroic defenders by overpowering Nipponese forces, is painted in Frazier Hunt's significant book "MacArthur and the War Against Japan."

Hero of the drama is Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who emerges from the book's pages as one of America's great soldiers of all time.

Imperishable renown is not won by a soldier through his exploits on the battlefields of victory alone. It is in the hour of defeat and supreme trial that the high qualities of heart and soul of the really great leaders of men shine most clearly.

Significant feature of Hunt's book is its introduction by Brig. Gen. C. A. Willoughby, chief of the military intelligence section of Gen. MacArthur's staff. Such indorsements are not given to books unless the facts they contain are beyond dispute.

Outstanding note in the portions of the book dealing with the Philippine campaign is the absolute inability of MacArthur and his officers to believe that no major effort would be made by their countrymen for their rescue.

They were aware of the vast shipments of airplanes and munitions that were being sent to Russia and Britain. They believed that the diversion of even a small portion of these would have been sufficient to save the Philippines for Uncle Sam

Hardest blow MacArthur had to take fell when, on arriving in Australia, he learned that no men and planes were available for a rescue drive towards Luzon, not enough even to assure the successful defense of the Australia subcontinent.

This would have broken the heart of a lesser man, but MacArthur put off mourning for his doomed comrades to a more appropriate season while he took up the heavy task that lay before him

Later chapters of the book deal with MacArthur's triumphant defense of Australia with shoestring forces, and his subsequent march up the north coast of New Guinea for advances of nearly 2000 miles, during which Japanese forces, estimated at 200,000, men were isolated and left to starve or surrender.

Probably this will go down as the most remarkable air-land-sea campaign in history. Together with the western march of Admiral Nimitz' fleet, it has chalked the handwriting on the wall, unmistakably, for the Mikado's high command to read.

Statements and opinions herein are private to the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the Navy Department.

Daughter Born as Dad Is Killed in Action

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 29—News of her husband's death in action in France reached Mrs. Etalo P. Sali of East Main st., Chicopee Falls, on the day she gave birth to a daughter at Mercy Hospital here.

The War Department telegram stated that Sali, an infantry sergeant, was killed June 15. Sgt. Sali, 25, had been in the service two years and took part in the Normandy invasion.

Random Harvest

NEWTON, N. C., Aug. 29 (AP)—A farmer agreed to cut a neighbor's hay field for a share of the crop. Two days later he returned to rake and bale the hay.

In the field he was greeted by another man who told him, "Thank you for cutting my hay. With all the labor shortage I didn't know how I was going to get it in."

The farmer had cut the wrong field.

on a rooftop. For the French are apt to fire first and make excuses later. In most cases it is doubtful that they know what, why or exactly where they are shooting.

MOST DRAMATIC

Certainly Gen. De Gaulle's parade of liberation was the most dramatic procession ever held in French history. It would have been theatrical enough even without the shooting melee at the end. For the famous boulevard was a human hedge row of waving hands and a continual sound like the beating of ocean surf.

There are no more emotional people than the French and this was the focal moment of four years of repressed feeling.

It was a day of Frenchman and France, with no Allied representation other than the small delegation of newsmen. The U. S. and British armies kept hands off.

Up to the moment De Gaulle entered an automobile at the entrance to the Rue de Rivoli and hurried to pay his respects to the municipal building in the city which is the heart of his country, it was merely a spectacle of a national hero greeting his people.

NOBODY KNOWS HOW

There is no coherent explanation of how or why or where it started. Personally I was sitting in a jeep with Dick Tregaskis and Bill Hearst when all hell broke loose.

The gradual crescendo of noise paralyzed the senses. The spectators scattered in panic, some flinging themselves to the ground and being trampled on by others stampeding for the side streets.

Every man with a gun of any kind blazed away at the windows on the roof of the opposite line of buildings.

So far as I could observe, there was nothing to shoot at, and no spat of answering flame from the windows that would indicate the presence of any enemy.

Well dressed women grovelled on the dusty street on the lee side of trucks and tanks. Crowds huddled along the sides of nearby buildings.

Masonry chipped off the facing of the building, and ricocheting tracers bounced at right angles. The greatest danger was from being shot by our own bullets or injured by whizzing fragments of stone, rather than from snipers, and one way or another many were hurt.

The contagion spread swiftly. Back along the line of De Gaulle's march other franc-tireurs began firing at a real or imaginary enemy.

FIRE AT RANDOM

As the firing diminished at the Hotel de Ville, we dug our chins out of the dirt and jeeped toward Notre Dame. The fusillade travelled ahead of us like the magnified sound of ripping cloth.

Police and soldiers just shot indiscriminately at the tops of buildings on the assumption that if there were snipers, they might draw them out by sheer volume of bullets.

I saw several French wounded being rushed away in army ambulances, though whether they were sniping victims or accidently shot by our own guns none knew.

Numbers of fainting women were fanned back to consciousness on the sidewalks. Lost children ran about hysterically crying for their mammas.

The more levelheaded among the French officers hurried from point to point ordering their men to cease such blind fire. Yet scarcely did they quell one group when the one they left began to volley again. By which time the assembled correspondents and the greater part of the population decided to stand under cafe awnings and let the soldiers work off their emotions.

WITCH HUNT DANGER

The gravest danger is not from the Germans or collaborators in Paris during these reconstruction days. It is from the witch hunting emotions of a people who, in a high state of nerves, hunt down random folk who may be innocent.

Last evening in Montparnasse, Lt. Col. Vidmer and I encountered a young Frenchman intent on buying champagne for the entire house. And why? Because he had just knifed a collaborationist to death, personally, and with his own hands, which were in truth caked with dry gore.

He was obviously proud of that blood, as a hunter might display a trophy of the chase to the edification of the little bar.

He gave a dramatic replay of the entire happening, with the final gruesome flourish. When he thust the knife in, the good folk sipped his champagne and uttered appreciative "ahs" and "ohs."

I asked the barman whether the youth was sure his victim was guilty, and the answer was an indignant shrug, and the reply "ah oui bien sur."

So this is a possible convulsion period when Paris, like a man just emerging from ether is suffering from delusions and mental mixup.

Undoubtedly there are considerable numbers of Germans still in concealment around the town. It is possible, too, that some of them may still be inside cleaning to snipe.

But I suspect that most of the shooting is prompted by nervous spasms, somewhat as a boy sees spooks and haunts while walking through a graveyard after dark.

JEEP STOLEN

When the writer left his press jeep the other day to join Lt. Col. Dick Vidmer's personal safari into Paris, he left his personal articles in a musette bag with Demaree Bess of the Saturday Evening Post, and the jeep driver.

Somehow the jeep was stolen, and with it Bess' uniform and typewriter, and an Army camera. The point of this misfortune is that nothing is safe if left lying unguarded. The net result is that this writer has been in Paris for three days with nothing more personal than his typewriter and a toothbrush.

When the Luftwaffe came over last night to precipitate a new hysteric, it was easy to see Parisians are not used to a helter-skelter bombing raid in which the foe scatters bombs down on the city as from a celestial salt shaker.

Neither have the good folk any conception of what constitutes a night blackout. Across the street lights gleamed brightly from half a dozen windows, and the street was filled with neighboring waifs.

Nothing happened.

This was just a small minor league visitation, but it sent the French into transports of fury all along the darkened street opposite the Victoria Palace Hotel.

Folks gathered in darkened doorways and kept up loud running fire of comments, which consisted of such phrases as "the dirty beasts," and "those filthy pigs." There was none of the silent stoic philosophy with which the Londoners accepted their ferocious punishment in the winter of '40-'41.

One matter has become strikingly evident since my arrival in the French capital—that their money is terrifically inflated beyond the level which the American government allows its own troops in exchanging their dollars for francs.

Our soldiers pay two cents for every franc, or 50 for every U. S. dollar, but the French money is actually from five to ten times cheaper in value. Thus a pair of simple wooden-soled shoes costs around 900 francs, or $18. A thimble of cognac is varying 75 to 100 francs or $1.50 to $2.

American money doesn't last

American money doesn't last long at these prices, but the fault is more ours than theirs, since our Washington economists who have charge of such matters arbitrarily fixed the rate of exchange out of all proportion to existing values.

A haircut costs $2, and the French themselves have sufficient quantities of their wall paper money to pay it.

Our currency, issued before invasion and looking like cigar coupons, just doesn't stretch that far. A day in Paris, under such economics, costs about $20 for the bare necessities, and I don't offer this as subterfuge to build up my own office expense account. Anyhow, I'm going back to the bushes with the Army before I go flat bust today.

Clusters of American and British civil affairs detachments have moved into Paris and set up housekeeping wherever the hotel accomodations seem most promising. Their function is to import foodstuffs and supplies to feed the hungry, and in a vague way to bring order out of economic chaos.

Yet noticeably, wherever a civil affairs group installs itself, the surroundings are the richest and most luxurious that can be found. They live in an atmosphere of plenty, with French servants and their own food stocks.

This irritates the U. S. doughboy, who exists in the bushes and fields, to the tips of his toenails. I trust the censors will permit this veracity.

NEW!...VITAMIN Treatment for HAY FEVER

BRINGING AMAZING RELIEF TO MANY HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA SUFFERERS

AMAZING hope for the relief of hay fever and asthma and other conditions due to allergies has been reported by a famous professor and other doctors.

For years hundreds of thousands of people have wandered about unhappy sniffling and sneezing, and itching and wheezing for a few months each year, while doctors were baffled by the curiously prolonged "colds" and were at a loss as to how to treat them.

A great many scientists have been working to find something to give relief in these allergy conditions. Now, in high quantities of vitamin C, they offer fresh hope to the man or woman who is unfortunate enough to suffer from hay fever or asthma.

Large Quantities of Vitamin C Relieve 88% of Cases in Clinical Tests

During a period of four years, a famous scientist had noticed that the body's supply of vitamin C seems to go down during hay fever attacks. So he decided to experiment with actual results of using unusually large doses of vitamin C in treating 25 human hay fever sufferers during the height of the hay fever season. These 25 hay fever sufferers were given large amounts of vitamin C daily between August 15th and September 15th and there was a decided improvement in 88% of the patients participating in this experiment. "Almost immediate relief" is one report, and others showed equally remarkable improvement. In these tests a much higher potency of vitamin C was used than is found in the average multi-vitamin product.

Hay fever sufferers wishing to experiment with this high potency vitamin C can now get extra high strength vitamin C in easy-to-take tablets at the Nature Food Centres stores. These tablets are called "Ultra-C Tablets." One small "Ultra-C Tablet" contains as much vitamin C as found in four-ounce glasses of five of the fruits highest in this vitamin. Think of it!—all this vitamin C in one small tablet! Try "Ultra-C Tablets" at once. They are inexpensive to use and are absolutely harmless. Each tiny "Ultra-C Tablet" contains 3,600 units of vitamin C—six times the minimum adult's daily requirement. One or two of these tablets daily should be enough to give this a fair trial.

Extra high strength vitamin C, as found in "Ultra-C Tablets", offers such great promise of success in these miserable sensitivities, that every hay fever sufferer should try for relief now. Why suffer this season if "Ultra-C Tablets" may stop that sneeze. Get "Ultra-C Tablets" today at any Nature Food Centres store. Three sizes—$1.50, $2.50 and $4.50. Mail orders postpaid. Sold only at

Youngest Merrick Now Drives Tank

(Mr. Finnegan's dispatches have been delayed and many of those about whom he wrote from England may be in the thick of the battle in France.)

By HUCK FINNEGAN

SOUTHERN ENGLAND—The Germans will think their robot planes are flying back at them when Gen. Bradley sends his tanks into combat. He has oodles of them and the men to handle them. Driving ones will be a Boston boy, Corp. David B. Merrick, of a long and honorable Merrick clan residing at 18 Mt. Ida rd., Dorchester.

Pvt. Wellesley R. Whooten, Hyde Park — Pvt. Robert Griffin, Providence

The father, Dr. Robert M., died in '30. Bob, Jr., was a crack hurdler at B. C. in the 20's; Dr. Frank, B. C. team physician, died suddenly last winter; Joe, now a lieutenant overseas; John and Dave. All were B. C. grads, Dave closing the line in '41. All were six-footers, all hurdlers.

There were the three sisters Alice, Ann and Kay, all married now, and the mother of eight children is alone for the duration.

There were a handful of New England boys with Merrick.

Pvt. Marino Terenzi, 132 Marginal st., East Boston. Parents: Rose and Fabio. Terenzi worked in the Bethlehem shipyards on Noddle Island before donning uniform. He used to hang around Webster st., and hears from one of his old cronies now in the Marines—Frank Ratta. He's only 22 and has a 27-year-old brother, Thomas, also in the Army.

Pvt. Robert Griffin, 24 and single, of 262 Jewett st., Providence. Mother: Mrs. Elizabeth Griffin. Girl friend: Alice La Bonne, 20, Farm st., East Blackstone. Brother Paul, 36, is overseas "probably in France."

He worked at Fairmount Dye in Woonsocket and would like to say hello to Bob Kelley and Foreman Frank Leahy. ("Let Ed Eaton's folks know I met him over here recently.")

Pvt. Archie Piro, 21, of 407 Plainfield st., Providence. Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Anselmo. Archie used to work in the Atlantic Cotton Mill but thinks he'll be a landscape gardener when he goes back home. He used to fool around with the boxing gloves, training with Ralph Zanelli. Archie was quite pleased when he met a next door neighbor over here—Pete Chumbron. He's anxious to get into combat to get it over with and go home so he can wed Ann Romando, 95 Unit st., Providence.

Pvt. Raymond T. Heren, 23, of 117 Salina st., Providence, lived with a sister, Mrs. Helen McLaughlin. He and Helen Kelly, 102 Canton st., Providence, may have a home of their own after the war. Ray keeps in touch with brother John, 28, Air Corps in New Guinea, and with Ralph Rocco, Freddie Mellody and Billy Wells of the Navy. ("Johnny Burns used to write but I understand he's missing in action.")

A New Yorker who would pass for Fiorello La Guardia's twin is Chaplain Cyprian Lauletta, Passionist priest who was at St. Leonard's on Prince st., Boston, from 1931 through 1934. "I've still got some good friends there," says Fr. Lauletta, naming the Dallesandros, DeLucas, Zingarellis and Schiavones. "Send them my regards."

Pvt. Wellesley R. Whooten, 658 Metropolitan ave., Hyde Park, 22, ran on Skip Sherlock's track team at Hyde Park. Since he joined the Army in '41, look at the places he's been: Ft. Devens, Mass.; Ft. Adams, R. I.; Camp Pendleton, Cal.; Ft. Jackson, S. C.; Camp Forest, Tenn.; Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.; Camp Laguna, Ariz., for desert maneuvers; back to Camp Forest and then to port of embarkation. Ruth Lynch of Baltimore, Md., writes him regularly.

"Let my parents (Mr. and Mrs. Roy) know I'm in the pink. Whooten's brother Cpl. Alverdo, 24, has been in New Caledonia for two years. Carl Nyman, a school chum, was killed in Italy.

Pvt. Edwain G. Macquarrie, 106 Beech st., Roslindale, hadn't seen "Dutch" Whooten for three years, was quite surprised to wind up in the same infantry company. Only 19, Macquarrie graduated from Hyde Park High in '42, worked for a year as clerk at Navy headquarters, 150 Causeway st.

Cpl. David B. Merrick, Dorchester — Pvt. Edwin G. Macquarrie, Roslindale

He's gone from 130 pounds to 160 since he roller-skated at Chez Vous, Dorchester, and the Co-Ed, Allston. He keeps in touch with school chums Stearns Smythe, now in Italy, Arthur Breslin and Leo Bacon of the Navy. His father and sister have government jobs and are in Washington for the duration. Brother Lewis, 24, is also with the ETO but Ed hasn't met him.

Sgt. Oscar Smith, Jr., 30, of 161 Beech st., Belmont, was attached to a British unit for two weeks and when he returned he found 20 letters waiting him, all written by wife, Pauline. Voice From the Past

THE MARITIME INDUSTRIES of the United States paid an impressive and well deserved tribute to the American Legion at the Permanente Shipyards in Richmond, Cal., on August 21, when a sleek, new cargo vessel of the Victory type was launched, bearing the name "S.S. Legion Victory."

No other American organization has advocated the development of a strong and adequate American Merchant Marine so continuously and persistently.

Since its inception more than a quarter of a century ago, the voice of the American Legion has always been raised in behalf of the American Merchant Marine, although it was raised futilely for many discouraging years.

The first pronouncements by the Legion on this subject must now be regarded as A VOICE FROM THE PAST, urging avoidance of our great and tragic mistakes of the past:

At the New Orleans convention in 1922, the American Legion directed national attention to "the affairs of the American Merchant Marine and the interests of American seamen," and resolved that "it is necessary to have an efficient Merchant Marine . . . to train our regular naval personnel."

In 1923, at the San Francisco convention, the Legion expressed a desire "to see at least 50 per cent of the trade of this country carried in American ships, flying the American flags and manned by American officers and men," and recommended "that all practical steps be taken to build up the American Merchant Marine to a size commensurate with the size of the Navy and proportionate to the size and wealth of this country."

Prophetically, the Paris convention of the American Legion in 1927 resolved:

"We feel that the present Merchant Marine is inadequate, thus constituting a great handicap to American industry and agriculture . . . and such inadequacy constitutes a great menace in the event of a national emergency.

"We therefore advocate proper recognition and support of our government of the American Merchant Marine and enactment of legislation that will provide a Merchant Marine of proper strength to serve the requirements of our industry and agriculture and at the same time be an auxiliary to our Navy as a guarantee of peace."

This was the unfailing theme of the American Legion throughout its history.

It is proper and gratifying to have the name of such an organization honored by these great establishments of today.

But the vital necessity of the nation is to avoid being listless to that same voice in the future, to resolve against letting our great maritime establishments fall into decay again.

The American people may rely upon the American Legion always to raise its voice in that great cause.

Dear Mr. Hearst:

The series of articles you have recently written on blood plasma and care of the wounded on the Normandy front portray unusually well the conditions confronting our forces there.

Your description of the care of the wounded conforms with what I saw upon my recent tour in France.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Mrs. P. Lee Phillips lives in a modest red brick dwelling at 1308 20th st. N. W., Washington. There is nothing unusual about the place, except possibly that it was never slept in by Harry Hopkins.

In recent weeks, however, Mrs. Phillips has been greatly disturbed by knots of people gathering outside her dwelling. They stare raptly at the facade—then shake their heads and walk away.

Mrs. Phillips is not overly-imaginative but this business got her quite upset. Among notions she entertained was that her place was being pointed out as a former opium joint.

The explanation came the other day when one of the rubber-neckers detached herself from a group and advanced to the doorbell. Mrs. Phillips answered.

"I just wondered," said the caller, "if you have any antiques I could buy?"

Mrs. Phillips was nonplussed but she decided to be playful.

"I am the only antique here," she said. "What are you offering?"

The caller, who turned out to be a non-playful type, said she was interested in antiques such as furniture and bric-a-brac.

"This place had a lot of nice things in the movie," said the caller, "I thought there might be some left I could buy."

Mrs. Phillips, who does not keep up with the cinema, asked the caller—very graciously, of course—what in blue blazes she was talking about.

"Why," explained the caller, "President Wilson was married here! Didn't you know that?"

"Well, yes—in a vague sort of way," replied Mrs. Phillips. "But it was a long time ago. The Wilsons don't live here now. They moved."

Anyway, it seems there is a movie being shown round and and about which has to do with President Wilson. There was some talk at first, I understand, about barring it to soldiers because it might corrupt them politically, but I hear that is all straightened out and that the soldiers can see it if they first assure their commanding officers they will not let it influence their vote.

The Phillips home, it appears, figures in this colossal epic because it used to be the residence of Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt. And it was there she and the President were married.

MRS. PHILLIPS told me there were no Wilson relics around to speak of, because, when she bought the place from Mrs. Wilson in 1918, it was practically empty.

"There were some old gaslight chandeliers," she said, "but I got rid of them in a hurry. The place had to be remodeled a lot.

"There were also several of those old-time cabinet mantlepieces. All I will say about them is that I did not consider them an aesthetic delight."

Since the movie-produced interest in her home, however, Mrs. Phillips has rummaged through a storage attic at the top of the house.

"I found some broken china and badly-nicked figurines I didn't know were there," she said. "But I don't know whether they were Mrs. Wilson's or not."

I HAVE JUST received a communication from Gunner's Mate John M. Fleming, who is temporarily dry-docked in a Pacific Naval Hospital for repairs. Writes Mr. Fleming:

"Thought you might be interested in a little human interest story told to me by Gunnery Sgt. Ira Lee Laird of New Orleans, a member of the Marines.

"Laird was lying in a foxhole on the front line during the battle for Saipan, watching the Japs. He saw something moving in the bush ahead of him.

"This particular area was not only dangerous to move in; it was dangerous to be there at all.

"Laird held his fire after determining in the dim dusk that whatever it was, it wasn't a Jap because it was too small. He figured it was probably an animal—and he kept the object in his sights.

"But it turned out to be a Jap after all—a 3 or 4-year-old boy, who calmly walked up, sat down on the pile of dirt beside the foxhole, and indicated, by moving his hands back and forth to his mouth, that he wanted a drink of water.

"After taking a big drink from Laird's canteen the little Nip lay down beside the foxhole and went to sleep.

"In the morning Sgt. Laird turned his prisoner over to his captain who sat the kid on his shoulder and marched him to headquarters for questioning!"

The leaves will fall in autumn,
And the flowers all come to grief,
But the green love in my heart of hearts
Will never shed a leaf.
For the sunshine in your bonny eyes
Will keep it green and fair,
And your breath will be its breeze o' spring.
O, lovely Rose Adair.

—MALACHY RYAN.

THE above indicates it takes an Irishman really to go to town in writing a love song. The above is just one verse of Mr. Ryan's poetic expression of love for Miss Adair. He started another verse: "O Rose Adair! O Rose Adair! You are the radiant sun, the blossomed trees, the scented breeze and song birds all in one" . . . What became of cider? I mean in the cities. It is never available at bars, fountain lunches or restaurants. Yet many people consider cider the healthiest of all drinks . . . The editor of a newspaper in Alaska received a letter from a remote section of the territory which read: "We are very lonely out here, my sister and I. We are the only women here. We have each other to talk to but we need another woman to talk about."

ASKING: Q—What progress are you making trying to understand horses and women? A—With the horses, excellent. As for women, very discouraging. And I am not kidding. I don't even understand my own wife. Q—Why do you so stubbornly continue to insist Ty Cobb was a greater ballplayer than "Babe" Ruth? A—Ruth was a fair ballplayer and a good slugger, but as an all-round man wasn't in the same class as Cobb. Ruth won the American League batting championship only once. Cobb won it 12 times. Ruth never had a .400 batting average. Cobb hit .400 or better in three seasons. Ruth just waddled around the bases. Cobb won the stolen base championship of the American League six times. Q—What king's picture is used for the king of hearts in the modern deck of cards and why? Was he a great lover or what? A—This is a much disputed question. Some people say the picture is that of Charlemagne. In the original French cards the kings were David, Alexander, Caesar and Charlemagne representing monarchs of the Jews, Greeks, Romans and French. The element of love did not enter into the selection of Charlemagne. Other experts say when the English took over the manufacture of cards they used the face of King Henry the Eighth for all the king cards.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: A member of the Elks, who is a bachelor, is harder to find than a four-leaf clover. The most recent statistics reveal 84.5 per cent of the Elks are married. I understand Elks make good husbands. Keep that in mind, young woman, when you are shopping for a matrimonial mate.

SIDELIGHTS: In Australia some WACs have been assigned to censor the letters of GI Joes. No doubt the young women will prove very efficient in this work. But what is a girl in this country going to think when she receives a letter from her sweetheart marked "Passed by Censor—Lt. Mary Brown"?

Hollywood . . . By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29 — What could be sweeter than writing a novel on studio time—which means on studio pay? W. R. Burnett has made another deal with Warner, whereby he'll whip out a novel, which will later be made into a picture just about the time the book is published by Alfred Knopf. The yarn will be tailor-made for Humphrey Bogart, who is still technically on suspension (that's another way of saying Bogey is still vacationing on his boat).

Humphrey Bogart

The story is titled "Life and Times" and deals with a big city attorney who puts up a respectable appearance but who is really in control of the underground element. Sounds as if Bogey will be doing a return to his fascinating bad boy roles, not that he will mind. He's the first to tell you "I was never cut out for a great lover."

* * *

ONE THING I'll say for Preston Sturges, there's never anything halfway about his movies. He was applauded to the echo for "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" and given "thumbs down" on "The Great Moment." In fact, I've never heard more scathing reviews than his last movie brought forth. But that's the fortune of the theater and it isn't stopping Sturges from going ahead and making plans for other movies. He's trying to buy the rights to Joseph Hergesheimer's best seller of some years ago, "The Three Pennies." Furthermore, he has written a story with a psychological implication, and D. W. Griffith, no less, will direct it for him.

THERE HAVE BEEN so many whispers about what picture Tamara Toumanova would do first following "Days of Glory" that I telephoned her to ask. She goes to New York in October to make an appearance at the Metropolitan with the ballet company, and she'll dance in a few big cities before she returns to Hollywood. Then she will either make "The Green Hussar" for Casey Robinson, her bridegroom, or one of Casey's originals about a Texas cowboy and a ballerina.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Bill Goetz has presented Joan Bennett with the $10,000 painting of her used in "The Women in the Window"; Linda Darnell and 20th cannot agree on her new weight. She likes it; they don't. They want her ten pounds lighter; Peggy Maley is writing Lt. Robert Stack every day; Broderick Crawford, a sergeant in the Air Corps, has been in the Normandy battles; Al Jolson is making plans to produce the "Life and Music of Tschaikowsky" on the New York stage; Michael O'Shea's brother Matt, a skier, is Mike's stand-in n. Sonja Henie's picture; Betty Hutton beat Frank Sinatra's all-time record in Boston by $850; a rave for Cpl. Bill Lundgan from overseas, also the word from one of Bill's buddies he will wed Rena Morgan, Helen's adopted daughter, when the war is over; when Shirley Temple was a little girl making "Heidi" Lon McCallister was an extra on the set. The other night they met at a kid dance and he claimed half of her dances; Edgar Bergen's doll, Effie Klinker, will get a new John Frederic's hat every month.

Broadway . . . . By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—Broadwayites still live, breathe and bend an elbow who recall the days when showgirls enjoyed wider publicity and more intense popularity than any debutante, divorcee, cover girl or queen.

And, of course, a girl who was glorified by the great Ziegfeld had hit the very bull's eye of the spotlight.

* * *

TO BECOME a Ziegfeld mannequin, a showgirl had to possess spectacular beauty of face and form. But to be a Ziegfeld boy—incongruous phrase!—a lad had to have talent and lots of it. Will Rogers was "one of the boys." So was Eddie Cantor—Ziegfeld glorified him in blackface.

And so it was only natural that when Cantor sat in a glittering Gotham cafe some nights ago with his Ida and George Jessel, and the band played a medley of Ziegfeld tunes, the comedian's memory traveled back to the days when Ziegfeld girls reigned supreme in the glamour kingdom.

Cantor told a story about one such girl, a beauty who, he and Jessel agreed, had been one of the most fabulous.

The expensively expressed adoration she excited would have seemed fantastic in fiction. Suitors gave her stocks and bonds, a town house, a country estate, furs and diamonds.

But the professional life of a showgirl is brief, and after a while this one vanished from Broadway. Nobody knew what had become of her.

NOBODY WOULD have believed that she returned all her luxurious possessions. But she did.

Just a few months ago she told Eddie about it. He was making a war bond pitch in the chief department store of a midwestern city when a buxom, beaming middle-aged woman greeted him affectionately and asked if he remembered her. He did.

It was the former "Follies" favorite.

She works behind the lingerie counter in that department store—has for a long time. She's been married for a long time, too, and her husband "makes a nice living," as she puts it, "for a white collar worker." They're saving every penny to buy a small house of their own after the war.

* * *

SHE DOESN'T look anything like she used to, but the fading of her beauty didn't sadden Cantor as it might have. Because as she told him about herself her eyes shone as bright as they ever did in the old days and she said, wonderingly:

"Eddie, I never knew I could be this happy."

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29—Just as you and your neighbor may not agree about a picture so it is with the exhibitors about movies. In the Motion Picture Herald, where the exhibitors have their say, it is Exhibitor B. Bennett of Calhoun, Ky., who has praise for "The Gang's All Here."

Alice Faye

"These big Technicolor musicals are what make Twentieth Century-Fox a great company to do business with. Picture well liked and business great."

Yet Exhibitor B. R. Johnson of Nipwain, Sask., writes about the same picture: "Just another musical in the same groove. Business down on this as there was too much color and not enough story. Benny Goodman as a singer was positively nauseating and spoiled what good work Alice Faye did."

There you are and with too much color yet.

* * *

FRANKIE BOY is always good for comment. Even the exhibitors quarrel about him, and some of them rush to his defense as if they were wearing bobby socks. Exhibitor Andrew Mayeshiba of Heart Mountain, Wyo., didn't like what other exhibitors had to say about "Higher and Higher" and he says: "Who said 'lower and lower?' This picture brought in more business than we're had in the past six weeks. We admit that the picture was not too good but it wasn't bad. Everybody says that Michele Morgan didn't belong." Sure, but no unkind word about Frankie boy.

Concerning "This Is the Life," Exhibitor Herbert S. Nusbaum of the Naval Air Station Theater, Navy 117, care FPO, N. Y., writes: "The Donald O'Connor pictures are great favorites here and this is no exception. Light, airy and with crackling dialogue it's in the groove. Sole complaint: The men said: 'We want more of Donald O'Connor and less of Susanna Foster.' But she does a grand job anyway in a part that is not the most sympathetic. (The commanding officer saw the picture twice)." Can't understand the Navy, for the sailors must have certainly changed if Susanna Foster doesn't get some whistles. Wait till the boys see her in shorts or a revealing gown. She's got the stuff and you should have noticed.

"If he whistles, he can see well enough!"

RUBY FOO IS BENT on giving war-booming Providence a night club worthy of the Rhode Island capital's swollen population . . . With her Den in Boston beating all August records, in spite of the recent heat wave, Miss Foo is trying to apply her Midas touch to the spot in Providence known as The Beachcomber . . . The Boston Chinese-born restaurateur believes that a combination of Chinese food, a floor-show with girls and a good dance orchestra, will prove irresistible . . . So casting for the chorus is under way . . . The other elements are on hand, with Chico Simone, the marathon runner, leading the orchestra.

John Chapman's capsule criticism is still being talked about . . . "Miss West seems to have another bust," wrote Critic Chapman, "which is one more than she needs" . . . Nor, for that matter, in Massachusetts Bay . . . Arthur Lee Simkins, the sepia singer at the Latin Quarter, is getting more sincere encores than any "name" star the popular night-club has ever booked . . . The "most-requested" number given by the dusky tenor is "Ave Maria," with servicemen requesting it more than civilians.

IF WE MAY BE EXCUSED a bit of log-rolling—couldn't something be done about promoting our friend, Ralph "Babe" Rubinstein, into the spot he rates, that of the No. 1 star of horse-race-broadcasting? . . . A hundred thousand residents of New England will support the thesis that The Babe "calls" a race more dramatically and more accurately than any of his rivals . . . Any one of the four big networks could score a ten-strike by hiring Mr. Rubinstein to broadcast the big handicaps . . . And that he isn't "calling" the races on The Big Apple, i.e., the New York circuit, is nothing less than neglect of the top-man in his difficult trade.

Peace Plan Gives Vain Hope to U. S.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Dean of American War Correspondents

Nations come into existence, grow, mature, decline, even di
History records a glittering pageant of empires, nations and peoples.

Many have vanished scarcely leaving a trace. Others have taken their place.

Yet the modern triumvirs, masters of the world for a day, deny or defy that fundamental law in their power-political efforts to make a world of rigid frontiers maintained by force.

In the final analysis it will be found that the growth and decline of nations is fundamentally one of the chief if not the major cause of wars.

Apparently it is the purpose of the peace-by-force in alliance with the American-conceived new league to pour the world into a rigid mould of frontiers that will make the "haves" forever keepers and doom the "have nots." That arrangement is to be "policed."

Nothing has been said about Africa, vast, primitive, largely undeveloped, sparsely populated.

That continent is in the possession or control of Britain, France, Belgium, Portugal, with a small sliver belonging to Spain. Not one of those countries has a growing population. England is almost static, France on the declining side

The fortunes of war have brought new territory to Britain. The Italian colonies of North Africa, Tripolitania and Cyrenaica and Eritrea on the Red Sea have passed into British possession. The Italians have been ousted from Abyssinia. Emperor Haile Selassie re-seated on his throne under the overlordship of Britain.

Britain now has uninterrupted control for some 2000 miles from Alexandria and Port Said on the Mediterranean to Cape Town at the southern extremity.

Churchill bangs the table if we venture to give our views on India of Jewish Palestine. Those are exclusively British Empire problems.

Poland and the three independent Baltic republics, Marshal Josef Stalin has given to understand, are solely the concern of Communist Soviet Russia and are none of our business.

We require no guarantee from any one for our territorial possessions. We can take care of that ourselves. What then do we get out of President Roosevelt's new league?

Apparently only the hope is offered that under its "world security" we may, perhaps, not again be called upon to fight for other countries, a hope which will prove in vain.

Boys Set Paper Salvage Mark

"Mission successfully completed." This is the message that marked the end of the day and a half's campaign, led by Frank Bonarrigo, 138 Norwell st., Dorchester, which resulted in the salvage of 1084 lbs. of waste paper.

Frank Bonarrigo

The feat was revealed by Miss Esther E. Larson, sponsor of the "Defense and Aviation" Corps, Dorchester, of which Frank is a member. His companions were Philip, Paul and Robert Henneberry, William and Walter Biggins, George Slocum and Ralph Whalen, all living on Norwell st.

Dividing their district into 70 streets, the boys scoured the area for waste paper and lugged it to Ralph's backyard. There, with twine and string donated by neighbors, they packed the material, called a junk dealer and divided the proceeds, $3.30).

What will they do with the money? That's their business. They earned it, and at the same time helped Uncle Sam no little.

Blonde to Join Murder Probe

NEW YORK (INS)—The beautiful blonde woman companion of murdered Mrs. Phyllis Newmark on the night she was slain at the Hayden Planetarium now appears to be willing to reveal her identity.

The latest in a series of mysterious communications to police and Jet Mandel, clothing manufacturer whom the slain woman's husband, Melville G. Newmark, named to act as intermediary in the case, came from a man who said he was an attorney.

Calling police the man, refusing to identify himself or his client, said that she was so upset over the murder that she had gone to Atlantic City for the week-end. He added that he would make every effort to have the mystery woman return to New York for questioning.

A Belmont man who telephoned the city editor with a news tip about a launch explosion in the Charles river from which nine persons were rescued was given the high award of $5 in this week's news tip contest sponsored by the Daily Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

Twin second place awards of $3 each went to a West Roxbury man who telephoned in information of a hit-and-run accident in which a woman was killed and a Boston man who told of a trawler being fired on by an enemy submarine.

A total of $14 in smaller awards went to eight other persons who telephoned with information of accidents, fires, crimes and other newsworthy incidents.

'Life With Father' Still Tops

By PEGGY DOYLE

If you've nothing else to be glad about, boys and girls, there is that laughing matter, the Colonial's "Life With Father," which is an alphabetful of vitamins for your lagging spirits.

Now rounding out five years on Broadway, this fabulous comedy which always seems to be a slice of family life rather than an excellently constructed play last night showed up for its fourth local engagement as fresh as the well-known now-she-loves-me-now-she-don't bloom.

It's incredible, you say to your self (who is seeing the play for the ninth, joyous time), that "Life With Father" . . . and his delectable Vinnie and their four red-headed sons . . . can continue to be such a fresh, agreeable experience. Of course, the surprise is gone but it is replaced by a keener awareness, for you know now that Father Day's blustering sound and fury are no match for Mother Day's beguiling persuasion, and, anticipating Vinnie's feminine guile in these universal domestic clinches, the play becomes even more richly rewarding.

Carl Benton Reid, that fine actor who was last seen on a local stage in "Papa Is All" and "The Cherry Orchard" and, before that, in "The Little Foxes," heads the cast of this sixth road company.

Although his Father Day has not the elegance of Louis Calhern's tall, dignified Clarence, Sr., it has a warmth and a solidity that cut through the man's peppery domineering and reveal him to be the most adoring of husbands and the most devoted of fathers. Undaunted by a procession of fathers that have put life into many past seasons, the Ogunquit Playhouse's one-time leading man came through last night with a performance that stacks up with the best of them and he, Howard Lindsay, was the first to mention it during intermission.

Lindsay, the play's co-author with Russel Crouse as well as the creator of Father Day in the Broadway production, Crouse, who couldn't be sure whether last night's opening was the twelfth or thirteenth, and producer Oscar Serlin can congratulate themselves also on their choice of Betty Linley as the feminine lead. Miss Linley's Vinnie is a darling, ever ready with her soft blandishments when her lord's temper boils over.

Worthy offspring of this footlights union are Sandy Campbell, Walter Kelly, Tom Moore and Byron Ellison, who play Clarence, Jr., John, Whitney and Harlan Day, respectively. Young Campbell is easily one of the best if not the best portrayers of the Yale-bound, romancing Day scion. The other three give winning performances but, as usual, the baby, Harlan, played with unself-conscious charm by Byron Ellison, mows down the house.

Helen Taylor, who plays the girl to young Clarence's bemused boy, has a nice quality and will be better when she eases into the role and loses that tightness. Helen Kingstead's Margaret, the wondrously enduring Day cook, is excellent. Others who turn in good performances are Priscilla Tower, Dorothy Ellison, Kathleen Phelan and Hale Norcross.

VERA HRUBA RALSTON'S interpretive ballet number is reported to be one of the highlights of "Storm Over Lisbon," opening tomorrow on Trans-Lux screen.

Pads Refresh, Invigorate the Eyes

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

YOU'LL TAKE HIGH HONORS in chic this fall if you have a bag and gloves like the ones modelled by Dolores Moran . . . and they'll be stunning with your fur coat later. The bag is immense and its ornament is of tortoise shell. Bag and matching oversewn gloves come in divine shades of softest suede.—R. M.

WHEN WE STOP to realize what our eyes mean to us, it is amazing how little consideration we give them until we are forced, because of faulty vision, to visit an oculist.

They are not only an irreplaceable possession, but they are our most important feature, speaking from a beauty editor's point of view. Yet although we cream our faces, permanent wave our hair, buy new and better lipsticks and diet for slimness, many women seldom do a thing for their poor, overworked eyes.

I'm not talking, of course, about girls who need glasses, although the eye pads I'm shouting for would be doubly good for those whose eyes are weak. The day is gone, thank goodness, when girls would go peering and squinting around rather than wear spectacles . . . nowadays the glasses are so cute they are an added attraction!

But whether or not your vision is perfect, you should give your eyes a break by getting these eye pads; and while they are cooling and relaxing the orbs, the special solution in which they are soaked does wonderful things to the skin around the eyes, which is so ugly when it goes dry and crepy.

I use them every night, and I can't tell you how much it does for one . . . you feel refreshed and invigorated all over after lying down for 10 minutes with this soft mask over your eyes.

I find it wonderfully relaxing to lie flat on the floor, with my feet up on a lounge chair, and let this feathery-soft pad draw all the tiredness and strain out of my eyes.

You'll get 20 treatments out of the 10 pads in the jar, and I predict that having once used them you'll be a steady customer.

Call the Beauty Department, LIBerty 4000, or write, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelop, for more details about these eye-saving masks.

THE EYES have been called the "windows of the soul" . . . and these lovely orbs deserve the poetic compliment . . . do yours, or are they tired, lusterless and bloodshot after a day's work? You should be kind to them, and give them a treat with some wonderful eye-pads we talk about today.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Monday—Here is the second instalment of Ens. Swain's letter describing the landings in Normandy:

"The second day was most trying. We had not even gotten our load to the beach before the first wave of casualties started to come rolling back.

"We were equipped as a hospital ship, and were quickly swamped. I had left the ship in a small boat to find the commander of our beach assault group, in order to obtain priority to beach our LST.

"I ran across a raft on which 10 men were hanging for dear life. We managed to save all of them by lowering our ramp and dragging them on the boat.

★ ★ ★

"THE PATHETIC DISCOVery that 6 of the 10 had either simple or compound fractures didn't make our job any easier. For not one let out a moan or any display of frayed emotions. We had to give rapid first-aid and had to knock two of them out with morphine, then head back to the ship on the double.

"It was our first actual contact with the war, and this one was realistic enough; yet each one with me faced it with a calmness that makes me proud of them.

It wasn't till later that we learned that the casualties were well below the expected rate, for we thought we had plenty.

"There was only one bad feature about our picking the wounded men up so soon, and that was the fact that we still had troops aboard. It was a faux pas psychologically, for it sobered them up considerably.

"WE FINALLY got the men and guns ashore and sent them on their way in LCT's, which is a terrific task in itself.

"Around 2200, we sent the last ones ashore and pulled away from the beach to get sailing orders. Found it necessary to lay over till the next morning for a convoy, so we lay off and watched the fireworks on shore.

"Again I had the watch when we got word that the — had been picked up by the E boats, and we were ready to take some survivors and casualties aboard. This knocked any plan I had for getting any sleep, so I made preparations to take care of them."

New State Canning Guide Gives Valuable Charts

By MARTHA LEE

HOME CANNING is a subject of paramount interest to the average homemaker these wartime days. And here is something she will like to hear. The Massachusetts Department of Agriculture recently published a bulletin showing when to can and when to use home canned foods. The vegetables and fruits are listed in chart form and show also the important food values of each one. This handy guide which may be used from year to year we will be glad to send you upon receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope. Send your request to Martha Lee, Record-American, Boston, Mass.

CANNING QUESTIONS

When home canning jobs are done and the food is sealed in jars, sometimes questions still arise in a home canner's mind. Here are some that are frequently asked:

Why shouldn't jars be stood on their heads to cool, since this shows up leaks

At the cooling stage, a good seal can be broken by standing a jar upside down. Cool the jars right side up; then test for leaks.

How can I test jars for leaks?

Test seals the day after canning, after removing any screw bands that hold on metal or glass disks during canning. A well-sealed metal disk is slightly drawn inward at the center. You can also test it by tapping with a spoon—a ringing sound shows a good seal; a dull sound, an imperfect seal. A further test, for glass as well as metal disks, is to lift the jar by the disk using fingertips, to see whether it has sealed firmly. To test other types, tilt and turn the jar to see whether any drops ooze out.

How long will home canned food keep—several years?

In normal times of food plenty, home economists advise eating up canned foods within the year. But longer storage is not unsafe if foods are properly canned, sealed airtight and kept in a cool, dark storage place. Foods kept for a long time lose some food value and flavor.

When I opened some jars of home canned food, the metal lids were discolored. Does this affect the food, which seems quite all right?

This discoloration of the metal is not unusual. It is not harmful and does not appreciably affect the food.

Following are recipes requested by readers:

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT

½ qts. (about 2½ to 2¾ medium-sized) finely chopped green tomatoes
2 qts. (about 8 to 10 medium-sized) pared, finely chopped tart apples
1 lb. raisins
¼ lbsp. minced citron, lemon or orange peel
1 tbsp. ground cinnamon
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. ground allspice
½ tsp. ground cloves
2½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
2½ cups granulated sugar
½ cup vinegar
1, to 1½ cup lemon juice
2 cups water

Combine all ingredients and cook mixture slowly until tender and slightly thickened. Stir frequently to prevent sticking. Pour into hot, sterile jars, fill jars to top and seal. Store in a cool, dry, dark place. Makes about 3 quarts.

Note: If desired, increase brown sugar to 5 cups and omit granulated sugar. And the vinegar may be increased to 1 cup omitting the lemon juice.

CUCUMBER SLICES

1 peck (10 lbs.) small cucumbers
1 cup salt
Vinegar
1½ cup sugar
½ cup mustard seed
2 tbsp. celery seed
2 tbsp. peppercorns

Wash and cut cucumbers into slices about ¼ inch thick. Put slices and salt in alternate layers in a crock or stone jar. Let stand overnight. Drain and press out all the juice possible. If too salty to taste, rinse in cold water. Measure. Heat to simmering half as much vinegar as cucumber slices; add sugar and seasonings. Pack cucumbers into clean, hot jars to within 1 inch of top. Fill jars with hot vinegar mixture to within ½ inch of top. Wipe off jar rims and adjust lids. Boil jars 15 minutes in boiling water bath (be sure water covers jars). Remove jars, complete the seals.

Purples in Style Again

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ALL the purples, from the palest mauve to the deep shade we call "Royal," are in style for Fall. They are favorites of practically every top-flight designer in the business. One thing these folks do with purple over and over is to suggest a purple dress to wear with your black, grey or brown fur coat the whole Winter through. It goes beautifully with all of them. You might try one and give your wardrobe a lift.

Maria Krum, one of our good ready-made designers, has started in to make soft town dresses, and they are knockouts. She likes wool jersey dresses, made of wood violet purple, a really enchanting color, and the one sketched comes in this color and material. It has a purple belt with gold leather applique on it, making it a very colorful model.

Goes West for Bridal

By BETTY ALDEN

THOUGH she will not be married till Saturday, Josephine Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Ross of Hingham, has already had a fair share of rice, confetti, champagne toasts and merry send-offs.

She and her father left Sunday for Coronado, Cal., where she will become the bride of Lt. Howard M. Turner, Jr., USNR, of Cambridge, who is stationed there.

As she drove away from home the neighbors gathered in the driveway to shower her with rice and her brother-in-law recorded the happy scene with color movies. And before the train pulled out of Trinity Place members of the Ross and Turner families gave her a send-off luncheon in the Copley-Plaza.

Josephine Ross

Josephine's going away suit was a modish black bengaline piped with scarlet braid, a big black hat, red pocketbook and slippers. She took with her the lovely satin and lace wedding gown worn by her sisters, Mrs. Frank E. Wood, Jr., and Mrs. R. Gilpin Ervin, Jr. Her dad will give her away and a Navy commander and his wife will give a small wedding reception after the ceremony in the Coronado Episcopal Church.

Her bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Turner of Cambridge and Marblehead.

* * *

EVERY YEAR it seems there's an important wedding in the Roosevelt family, and this year there are two. No sooner had Paulina Longworth and her bridegroom Alexander Sturm left for their honeymoon than her cousin, Nancy Dabney Roosevelt, decided on Sept. 24 as the date for her wedding to Ensign William E. Jackson, USNR.

The girls have numerous family connections in Boston.

Nancy is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt. Her mother was Miss Grace Stackpole Lockwood of Boston. Col. Roosevelt was wounded recently at Biak and will be unable to come home for the wedding. If all goes well, his son, Lt. Archibald Roosevelt, Jr., military attache at the U. S. Embassy in Bagdad, will be home to give Nancy in marriage. If not, Dunbar Lockwood of Boston, brother of Mrs. Roosevelt, will perform the honors.

The bridegroom-to-be is the son of U. S. Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Robert H. Jackson of Washington.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. MARCUS COOLIDGE of Fitchburg announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Judith Coolidge Greenwood, to W. Gordon Hughes of So. Dartmouth, Aug. 26 at the home of the bride's parents. After Sept. 9, the couple will be at home in So. Dartmouth.

Marshfield Fair Opens Race Meeting Today

By JACK CONWAY

RACING RETURNED to Massachusetts today when the Marshfield Fair was scheduled to open a six-day meeting that will last through Labor Day. There will be eight races a day with post time at 2:30 p. m. other than on Labor Day when it will be 1:30 p. m.

With $17,500 in purses and more horses available than at any time in the history of the Marshfield Fair, Racing Director Ernie Sparrell and President Charley Langille look for a successful meeting. It will be the first racing at Marshfield in two years as the fair was called off in 1943 on account of the transportation difficulties.

Ernie Sparrell

Racing Secretary Jimmy Piccarillo says that with so many half-mile horses quartered at Marshfield and at Brockton it will be possible for him to stage races that will give keen competition. The barns at the Marshfield Fair filled quickly. Many horses were then placed in nearby barns located on farms.

Frank Kingman announced that the barn at the Brockton Fair grounds would be available. The horses kept at Brockton will train on the Fair track and be vanned to Marshfield.

There will be an electric starting gate at Marshfield. Bob Frend, starter at Suffolk Downs and at Rockingham Park, and his crack crew will be on the job at Marshfield.

There will also be a photo finish camera, and other modern racing equipment.

Dr. Eugene Bradley, Norman Costello, Perry Osborne and this writer will be the stewards for the association, while John Bowditch of Framingham will act for the State. Bowditch was State racing steward at the Suffolk Downs meeting.

Frank Mullen will once more act as chief inspector for the State, while George Donahoe will supervise the mutuels for the State. Mort Mahoney has placed Jeff Travers in charge of the operation of the mutuel plant.

Chairman Charles Connors will attend the opening day of Fair racing. Commissioners Harry Allen and Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., will also visit Marshfield during the meeting.

Thursday will be Governor's Day. The Governor's Handicap will be the feature.

3 Other State Fairs

THERE WILL be three other State Fairs following the one at Marshfield. Northampton will open on Labor Day and continue through Sept. 9. Brockton will run from Sept. 11-16, and Great Barrington from Sept. 18-23.

Jimmy Piccarillo will be Racing Secretary at Brockton and Great Barrington as well as at Marshfield while Eben Pons will be Racing Secretary at Eli Lagasse's Northampton track.

There will be $80,000 in purses for the four meetings. This sets a new high for the Massachusetts Fair circuit.

Half-Milers Give Action

HALF-MILE racing has proved popular in Massachusetts as has been true in other places where this type of racing has been featured. The short turns and the nearness of the spectators to the horses give added thrills.

There are plenty of top riders at Marshfield, and this fact will help improve the racing.

Doerr, Musial Lead Leagues

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Figure filberts sharpened their pencil points for a four-decimal-point finish as Stan Musial of the Cards led Dixie Walker of the Dodgers into the National League stretch with a margin of .0007 and Bobby Doerr's American League lead was cut to three points by team mate Pete Fox of the Boston Red Sox, and Dick Siebert of the A's.

All averages included games played htrough Sunday.

Musial still was on top at .3543 to Walker's .3536 but there was no end in sight. Everything pointed to a rough scramble right down to the Oct. 1 wire with New York's Joe Medwick, running third at .343, and Johnny Hopp of St. Louis, fourth at .337, given "dark horse" chances.

Doerr's challenge from Lou Boudreau of Cleveland faded as the Tribe pilot shuttled down to fifth, giving way to Fox and Siebert tied at .322 to Doerr's leading .325. Roy Cullenbine of Cleveland was the only newcomer in the top 10 in either league, taking ninth spot in the American as Ralph Hodgin of Chicago dropped down.

The 10 leading hitters in each league were:

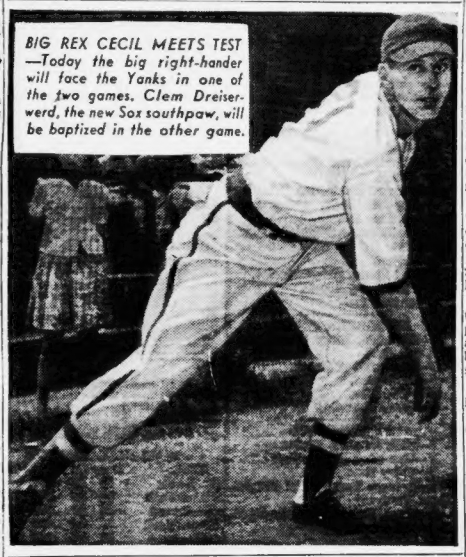
Sox Play Yanks Twice; Move Into Second Spot

By JOE CASHMAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—Their siege-guns roaring again, the Red Sox are back in second place, a half game ahead of the Yankees and Tigers, and only 3½ games back of the Browns. The trick now is for them to stay there through the three games remaining of their current series with the Bombers.



BIG REX CECIL MEETS TEST —Today the big right-hander will face the Yanks in one of the two games. Clem Dreiserwerd, the new Sox southpaw, will be baptized in the other game.

It will be a real nice trick if they can do it, possibly a pennant-winning trick.

Particularly it will be a noteworthy feat if they can gain any ground or even hold their own this P. M. For, you see, they have a twin bill carded with the defending champion Bombers and they're entrusting the pitching of it to their two least experienced moundsmen.

The colorful Rex Cecil, only two weeks out of San Diego, will start one game. The highly heralded, but completely unproven Clem "Lefty" Dreisewerd, $30,000 beauty from Sacramento, will make his big league bow in the other fray.

Neither chucker ever before saw the Yankee Stadium, let alone pitch in it. Now they're being asked to go to work out there and keep the Hose in the runner-up slot.

It's a tough spot on which to place two tyros.

Yet there's nothing else Joe Cronin can do.

These lads must be able to win clutch games if the Hose are to reach the top.

Important money was paid for them on the strength of scouts' reports that both possess what it takes to win in the main tent, no matter how great the pressure.

ACID TEST FOR KIDS

So they're being called on to face the acid test.

Cecil, in three starts, has shown

Braves' Owners Mean Business

By BILL GRIMES

Through their affiliations with the government as contractors, Louis Perini, C. Joseph Maney and Guido Rugo, owners of the Braves, are in a position to obtain information even of a more optimistic nature, than the OWI has released to the public at large.

Perini, Maney and Rugo had no assurance that baseball would be allowed to continue, when they purchased the controlling interest of the Braves last winter. In fact, due to the uncertainty of the public's reaction toward the baseball during a global war, the selective draft and the shortage of manpower, the national pastime appeared doomed.

During the current season, no one was crushed trying to gain admittance to Braves Field. But, last week, the Braves spent the equivalent of approximately $100,000 to purchase Dick Culler and Tom Nelson from Milwaukee.

Although it has survived, baseball has been a costly proposition this season. First off, the players, appreciating the shortage of talent, quietly but firmly, demanded increases in their salaries. And, they received them. Transportation is higher, so are hotel accommodations, meals and taxes. But, the Braves still travel first class and live in the same luxury they did before the war.

If the war is over by spring, the Braves will add no less than 27 names to their roster. They have that many players in the Army and Navy.

According to a statement issued in Washington, men in the service, who have no jobs to return to during the transition period, will not be discharged from the armed forces. So, it is safe to presume that ball players will be mustered out as soon as peace has been declared.

The Braves' pitching corps of 1944 must make room for such hurlers as John Sain, Tom Earley, Warren Spahn, Jim Trexler, Bill Posedel, Art Johnson, Frank Lamanna, Jimmy Wallace. Bob Williams, Lou Tost, John Dagenhard and Ray Martin. And, the return of Sibby Sisti, Connie Ryan, Buddy Gremp, "Skippy" Roberge, Bob Ditweiler, John McCarthy and rookies, Larry Clement and Wally Fletcher will cause the evacuation of all of the current infielders, excepting "Whitey" Wietelmann.

Woefully weak in the outfield for two years, the Braves will welcome beak "Slapsie" Maxie West, Nanny Fernandez and Bama Rowell who gave up the infield upon entering the Army. And, it's going to take a better power hitter than the Braves have had since Wally Berger's days to keep Chet Wieczorek from crashing into the regular lineup.

Kid Sox Pitchers Face Acid N. Y. Test

he has courage; also that he has control. His stuff isn't remarkable. He relies mainly on his ability to hit the spots which represent the weaknesses of opposing hitters.

"There'll be days when he'll be invincible," opines Cronin, "Other days when he'll have trouble getting anybody out."

Dreisewerd, judging from hearsay, has everything, save extraordinary speed.

Basing their opinion on what they seen of him in warmup, the Sox masterminds say he has a curve and screw ball which should bewilder big league hitters. They have, too, about his smooth motion and delivery.

"A second Herb Pennock in style and poise," some go so far as to term this 28-year-old portsider, who way back in '34 was with the Giants.

They're taking it for granted that he can get his stuff over the plate. You can't blame them. In 30 games on the coast this season, 28 of which he won, he issued only 20 walks. That's an average of only two passes in three games.

But that was in the Coast League. Now he's in the majors. Some pitchers find there's quite a difference between the two. Others don't notice the change.

MAY MEAN PENNANT

If Dreisewerd is one of the latter, the Hose bought themselves a great pitcher and maybe purchased their selves a championship in the bargain. If he's impressive in his debut, Sox flag stock will soon soar to a new high.

Anyway, as they await to see what happens when their mound novices face the Yanks, the Cronin-men are closest in pursuit of the jittery Brownies.

Our heroes saw to that in the Monday opener over here when they pounded out a 7-4 decision over the McCarthy minions, a decision that left them weak, what with the Yanks having the winning run at bat when Red Barrett fanned Don Savage for the final out.

They grabbed this one despite the fact that the Bombers collected 13 bases on balls off Yank Terry and Barrett.

They did it thanks to Bob Johnson, George Metkovich and Pete Fox were still on the red hot batting streak they three started in Philadelphia to take the Sunday twin-bill from the A's.

After combining to fashion 14 hits in Shibe Park on the Sabbath, this trio of thumpers came right back to account for seven of the ten hits and knock in all seven runs credited to the Hose yesterday.

So, though, Terry was chased to a fourth-inning shower when he threw 12 straight called balls to walk three batters with none out and Barrett, who rushed in to strike out two and retire the side scoreless, went on to issue ten free tickets, the Hose prevailed.

If Johnson, Fox and Metko can keep up the good work, Cecil and Dreisewerd ought to pass today's crucial test.

Why, 13 walks is only seven fewer than Dreisewerd yielded in 30 games.

Horsemen Stranded

SEATTLE, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Longacres horse racing season ends today, and 73 persons associated with the sport may have to horseback if they expect to leave this place.

Paul W. Copeland, district gasoline rationing supervisor, heard their pleas yesterday that they and their automobiles would be stranded here if they couldn't get enough gasoline to return to California. But they fiinshed out of the money with Copeland.

He pecked at the rules once more. "Inflexible," he said.

Wife Catches

He gives his wife credit for his uncanny control.

Seems that a few years back the Missus decided it would help hubby if he pitched daily during off-seasons, which he spends in New Orleans.

"That's fine," said Clem, "but who's going to catch me?"

That didn't stymie his wife. She became his battery mate.

Ever since, he's pitched and she's caught daily from the close of one season to the start of the next.—JOE CASHMAN.

Braves Tear After Giants Here Today

The Braves and the Giants open a two-day two-game series this afternoon at the Allston Wigwam . . . The Colemen were unable to do better than break even with the Phillies in a six-game series.

They lost the first game of each of the three twin bills but managed to battle their way to victories in the nightcaps.

Nate Andrews, who will be on the mound this afternoon, Large John Hutchings and Al Javery were the winning pitchers and the losers were Jim Tobin (2) and Al Javery . . . "Red" Barrett, Ira Hutchinson and Woody Rich, who would have been beaten if allowed to remain on the hilltop, got off scott-free.

The Phillies wore out "Red" Barrett in the first game in six rounds . . . Then, after Hutchinson had set the stage for the Braves to put back a three-run lead in the 9th, Jim Tobin volunteered to take over and was charged with the defeat when Ron Northey popped one of his offerings into the jury box for a grand slam home run.

"Tobe" came right back the next afternoon and dropped another when the Phillies got to him for three runs in the second inning and the Braves were unable to score off Al Gerheauser . . . Javery was more successful than Tobin doing a come back . . . After losing Sunday's opener, "Jave" relieved Woody Rich in the 4th and sailed through to a 10 inning win.

Hutchings knows more about pitching than when he was sent to Indianapolis by the Braves . . . On his previous sojourn in the National League, John was under the impression that he had enough speed to blow pitches by opposing batters . . . Naturally, he didn't do so well . . . He was a "chucker" in those days but judging from his work against the Phillies has learned how to pitch effectively.

VOISELLE DUE TODAY

Manager Mel Ott will toss Bill Voiselle against the Braves this afternoon . . . On his last time out, Voiselle beat the Dodgers allowing the Durochermen only eight hits . . . And, now that Mel Ott is back in the lineup, the Giants are a far more formidable aggregation than they were while the popular little manager was sitting on the bench.

The Ottmen are battling to stay in the first division and with the Cubs right on their heels, they'll be bearing down against the Braves today and tomorrow.

Red Sox Included in World Series Plans

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP)—The 1944 World Series will begin in St. Louis on Wednesday, Oct. 4, and efforts will be made to confine attendance strictly to hometown customers.

The plans were laid by Baseball Commissioner K. H. Landis and representatives of the St. Louis Cardinals, near-certain National League pennant winners, and of the four top American League teams—the circuit-leading St. Louis Browns, New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox.

The Cardinals will play host for the opening regardless of the outcome of the tight junior circuit race. If the Browns win the American League flag, the games will follow this schedule:

The Cardinals will be the home team at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, for the first and second games, Oct. 4 and Oct. 5, and for the sixth and seventh games, Oct. 9 and Oct. 11. The Browns will be the home team at the same park for the third, fourth and fifth games, Oct. 6, Oct. 7 and Oct. 8.

HUB WOULD GET FOUR

If Detroit meets the Cardinals, the first three games will be in St. Louis, Oct. 4, Oct. 5 and Oct. 6, and the last four, in Detroit, Oct. 8, Oct. 9, Oct. 10 and Oct. 12.

If either the Yankees or the Red Sox oppose the Redbirds the first three games will be played on the same dates in St. Louis, and the last four will be in the eastern city Oct. 9, Oct. 10, Oct. 11 and Oct. 13. Besides time allowed for travel, an open date is provided for ticket sales between the sixth and seventh games.

St. Louis games will begin at 2 p. m. Central War Time, or at 2 p. m. Eastern War Time in Detroit, New York or Boston. Receipts of the third, fourth, sixth and seventh games—except for the players' share—will go to the War Relief and Service Fund. The $100,000 check for broadcasting rights will be put in the same kitty—one that totaled $308,000 last year.

Seabiscuit Foster Dad

WILLITS, Cal., Aug. 29 (AP)—Seabiscuit, the erstwhile wonder horse, has adopted a family—a mama cat and her three kittens.

The day they were born, in one corner of the stable, Seabiscuit spent the whole day sniffing them. Now the Biscuit, spending his retirement at Charley Howard's Ridgeway ranch, is so daffy about the youngsters he tries to protect them by covering them with straw whenever a stranger appears.

Said one stableman:
"I've never seen a horse act like this before."

Braves Lose 2

Headaches continue to mount for the Braves. Manager Bob Coleman learned yesterday that two of his players will soon be lost to the team. Deacon Phillips, the regular third sacker, has been ordered to report next Saturday to his draft board in San Angelo, Tex. Demers Has Chance To Square Issue

Pat Demers, Brockton's K. O. artist, has a chance to redeem himself when he clashes with Johnny Cool of Worcester in the main bout of 10 rounds tonight at the Bristol Arena, New Bedford. This is a return affair, the Worcester ringster having flattened Demers in four rounds about a year ago.

Since that bout Demers has come a long way, piling up a long string of wins over such boys as Jackie Callura (former N. B. A. featherweight champion), Jerry Zullo, twice, and many others.
